Umbrella Painting Art at Thai Pavilion

Recently, if you have a chance to visit Global Common 6, you would be amazed by the Thai Pavilion's new highlight landmark of "Suphannahongse" Royal Barge, depicted through the sub-theme of "The River of Wisdom", a representation of the uniqueness and simplicity of Thai ways of life along the riverside even in the 21st century.

Also, when you come inside the new look Thai Pavilion, you will meet a friendly lady from Chiangmai, the northern city of Thailand, who will demonstrate uniquely umbrella painting art. Mrs. Maneewan was grown up in a family involved in umbrella painting industry and has practiced painting art for more than 20 years.

She can paint on many kinds of materials not only on paper umbrella but on table cloth, T-shirts and also body. Children seem to enjoy the painting of butterflies, birds, flowers on their cheeks and hands. She loves to see their smiles of contentment.

Paint is non-toxic to normal skin but may irritate to very sensitive skin or easy allergic skin.*
