July 25, 2005

Japan Association for the 2005 World Exposition

Approach of Typhoon No. 7

Although Typhoon No. 7 is approaching Japan, EXPO 2005 will open on schedule tomorrow, July 26. Depending on the path the typhoon takes, however, a decision may be made to close the site early. Such a decision will be made around noon tomorrow.

Information regarding any changes to the opening and closing times will be provided to general visitors as quickly as possible through the official Expo website, official FM radio station, and the on-site public address system. The Association would appreciate the cooperation of media representatives in notifying the general public of any such changes.
